Buridan's Ass

„The man who is violently, but equally, hungry and thirsty, and stands at an equal distance from food and drink, and who therefore must remain where he is.“

Aristoteles: De Caelo/On the Heavens. Trans. W. K. C. Guthrie, Heinemann, London 1938, 2:13:295b (S. 237)

The demiurg

“Die Gnosis kannte die Gestalt des Demiurgen, eines Schöpfergottes von niederem Rang, der von der Hochgottheit den Auftrag erhalten hatte, den Kosmos zu erbauen”

N. Bischof (in prep, S. 143)

The gnosis knew the figure of the Demiurge, a creator god of lower rank, who had received the commission from the High Deity to build the cosmos
